Norm Asbjornson takes 'home improvements' to a new level

Norm Asbjornson has made a few trips back to his hometown of Winifred this year in order to see the progress on a long list of projects he's funding through Central Montana Foundation (CMF).

In 2026 alone, he's provided more than $17 million that's paying for major construction projects including paving of the sidestreets, along with sidewalks, curbs and gutters; multiple housing units through the Winifred School Housing project; hangars at the Winifred Airport, improvements at the Winifred Stockyards, and most recently, work for an addition at the American Lutheran Church of Winifred.

Work is beginning on a major renovation and addition to the American Lutheran Church of Winifred funded by Norm Asbjornson. Reviewing the architectural plans are (from left) church treasurer Jamie Wickens, Jeff Whitcraft with JLW Architecture, Norm, and Pastor Robin Nice Bjella.

For Norm, who will turn 91 in December, the projects are about much more than buildings and infrastructure. They are a way of giving back to the community that shaped him.

A Connection That Goes Back Generations

Norm was particularly nostalgic when he visited American Lutheran Church during his trip to Winifred in early September.

Generations of his family gathered there for worship, including his great-grandmother, Olive Asbjornson; his grandparents, Oscar and Thora Asbjornson; and his parents, Julian "Boots" and Dorothy "Eric" Asbjornson. Norm spent his formative years attending church and Sunday School there.

As he walked through the front doors, he immediately spotted a long wooden bench. "I sat on that bench many times through the years!" he exclaimed.

For generations, parishioners have used the bench to remove their overshoes so they wouldn't track mud and snow into the sanctuary. Norm's earliest memories of the church include playing on the altar—something he admits he wasn't supposed to do. "I got in trouble quite often!"

He also remembers when his great-grandmother Olive died in 1947 and was pleased to see that the candlesticks given in her memory still have a place on the altar.

Norm hasn't lived in Winifred since leaving home after graduating from high school in 1953, but giving to the church of his youth has become increasingly important to him.

About 15 years ago, he funded a smaller addition to the church, a new HVAC system and other upgrades. Now, the church is embarking on a much larger project, thanks to Norm.

Exterior improvements will include a new concrete entrance walk with handrails, a new parking area, new siding, roof, and windows. The centerpiece will be a large addition to the existing sanctuary featuring beautiful stained-glass windows, a raised ceiling and altar, slope floor and pew seating for 82 parishioners.

When the project is complete, Norm said, it will be hard to find a more beautiful house of worship in Montana.

Investing in Winifred's Future

Another major project close to Norm's heart is the transformation of Winifred's streets.

Montana Highway 236 runs through the center of town and, until recently, was the extent of Winifred's paved streets. Norm decided to change that, providing funding through CMF to pave the town's streets and install sidewalks, curbs and gutters throughout much of the community.

Thanks to FFCU for sponsoring this edition's full-color!

Fergus Federal Credit Union (FFCU) is the generous supporter of the full-color printing of this edition of The Roundup, a joint publication of Central Montana Foundation (CMF) and Central Montana Medical Center Foundation (MCF).

FFCU Ag/Commercial Loan Officer Erin Knerr said they are pleased to support the newsletter and recognize the important work CMF and MCF do to strengthen Central Montana communities.

Giving back to the community is a mission that's also important to FFCU, and they do so through financial support and employee volunteerism. FFCU employees volunteer with local non-profits like Boys & Girls Club of Lewistown, Kiwanis, Small Wonder Child Care, among others.

A Central Montana native, Erin has worked at FFCU since 2016. She said the credit union's employees are dedicated to their work, their members, and their community.

FFCU Chief Financial Officer Brian Henderson serves as CMF's First Vice President and is a member of its investment committee. He continues a family legacy of philanthropy that began with his grandfather, Jim Wilkins, who helped organize CMF in 1984. His grandmother, Margie Wilkins, provided generous estate gifts to CMF and other nonprofits, while his parents, Jay and Janette Henderson, continued that tradition and were named CMF Friends of the Foundation this year.

FFCU also puts that commitment to work by supporting its employees. Through its Infant to Work Program, new parents can bring their babies to work for up to six months. Erin was one of the first parents to participate. Six babies have "graduated" from the program since it began in 2022.

FFCU has long supported 4-H and its livestock sale, the Central Montana Fair and Rodeo, and numerous local non-profits. Recent gifts include $300,000 for a new gym floor at the Lewistown Civic Center, $100,000 to Lewistown Public Schools, and another $100,000 shared among area rural schools.

The credit union is growing, too. FFCU is adding 2,000 square feet to its building and plans to remodel the existing space once the addition is complete. The project will provide more room, updated technology, and a more efficient, welcoming facility for members and employees. "It's an aging building, and the remodel will help us better serve our community and members," Erin said. "Our goal is to have a nice facility both for our members and the people who work for us."

Founded in 1953, FFCU is a member-owned, not-for-profit cooperative governed by a seven-member board of directors.

"FFCU employees are always willing to jump in to help and be involved," Erin said. "FFCU staff and board of directors have a passion for our community and our membership. This is where we choose to make our home, and we're proud to do what we can to give back to the community that gives so much to us." ❖

IRA Rollovers are a way to support community non-profits

For one anonymous Central Montana Foundation donor, taking a Required Minimum Distribution (RMD) from his retirement account is about more than meeting an IRS requirement—it's an opportunity to give back to the community he calls home.

"A QCD (Qualified Charitable Distribution) is wonderful. I invested in a 401(k) for 35 years, and it was all tax-deferred. The investments I made had a good return, so now I get to feel good about returning the gain to good causes."

He feels strongly about giving locally. "We have a fantastic community, and I think it's important to invest in it."

Our donor grew up in Lewistown, went to college, had a great career, and then came back home upon his retirement. "I came back because I love the Lewistown area."

He has chosen to direct a growing list of QCDs to funds held with Central Montana Foundation.

He talked about the importance of quality healthcare in Central Montana and said that's why he has directed QCDs to support CMMC's Helmsley Cancer Center, Radiology and Hospice.

Our donor had close family members who were veterans, so he has also directed gifts to the Veterans Park Maintenance Fund. "It's a beautiful park and needs funding to keep it that way."

Another cause the donor has committed his QCDs to is Heart of Montana Farm in the Dell's campaign to build a home where people with developmental disabilities can live and work in an agricultural setting.

During the past year, he has also provided gifts from his IRA to Friends of the Trails, the Lewistown Public Library and Boys & Girls Club.

A QCD allows individuals age 70½ or older to make a direct transfer from an IRA to a qualified charity. A QCD can count toward an RMD and may be excluded from taxable income, subject to IRS rules.

CMF Executive Director Carrie Mantooth frequently sees RMD and QCD gifts from IRA custodians. "The RMD or QCD must be transferred directly to the charity, in this case the Foundation," Carrie said. "Most of the time, the donor notifies us in advance that the gift is coming with instructions for distribution. That's very helpful!"

If you're planning to send an RMD or QCD to CMF, please call the CMF office at 406.538.6130. To learn more about the tax benefits and requirements of QCDs, contact your financial professional.

For this donor, the benefit goes beyond the tax advantages.

He said there's a benefit in excluding these QCDs from taxable income, "but the best part for me is that these donations are put to work to help some great causes." ❖ mary contractor, got underway in earnest in spring 2025 and, weather permitting, is expected to be completed late this year.

Norm's overarching goal is to make improvements that instill pride in Winifred residents and attract more people who want to be part of a thriving community in beautiful Central Montana.

"My basic philosophy in life is to leave this world a better place," he said.

From Humble Beginnings to Huge Success

It has been more than seven decades since Norm left Winifred. His life since then has been a remarkable story of setbacks, hard work and success. Through it all, he has remained aware that his early years in Winifred helped shape the man he became.

Norm's grandparents, Oscar and Thora Asbjornson, homesteaded in Winifred in 1913, the same year the town was founded. His parents, Julian "Boots" and Dorothy "Eric" Asbjornson, continued the family's connection to Central Montana.

The candlesticks on the Winifred Lutheran Church altar were memorial gifts for Norm Asbjornson's great-grandmother, Olive, in 1947.

His father operated the D-Y Garage in Winifred, selling farm equipment and vehicles throughout the area. His mother was a former schoolteacher. Norm grew up in a home without running water or electricity, where his parents instilled in their children a strong work ethic and independence.

He put himself through college at Montana State College, now Montana State University, with a stint in the Army in between and plans to return to college using the G.I. Bill.

Norm graduated with a degree in mechanical engineering in 1960 and began a career in the heating and cooling manufacturing business. After being recruited to work for a company in Tulsa, Oklahoma, Norm purchased the company's air-conditioning division in 1988 and founded AAON, Inc. Today, the company employs more than 7,000 people worldwide.

As his success grew, so did his determination to share his wealth with the places that were important to him, including Central Montana and Winifred.

A Legacy Taking Shape

For many years, Norm has supported a remarkable range of projects in Winifred, including the community center that houses the city hall, library, museum and post office; projects benefiting the school; improvements throughout town; and the construction of a hotel and restaurant.

The latest construction project at the Winifred Airport is this large mechanic's hangar, complete with living quarters. Quality TimberWorks is the main contractor, and Norm is pleased with the combination of century's old structural technology evident in the wooden beams, combined with the best of technology for energy efficiency, including SIP panels insulation (see inset) and radiant floor heating.

In recent years, his focus has increasingly turned to major construction projects funded through CMF. His investments in Winifred include a new paved airstrip and hangars at the Winifred Airport, including space for storage and mechanics with living quarters; a large-scale school housing project designed to help recruit educational personnel and provide housing for other residents; repairs and improvements to the town's water and wastewater infrastructure; and improvements to the Winifred Stockyards, including an outdoor arena for community events.

He has also established long-term endowments through CMF for the Winifred School, Winifred Community Library, Winifred Museum and Town of Winifred, providing resources for the community's needs well into the future.

Norm's connection to Winifred began more than a century ago with his family's arrival in Central Montana. Although his life took him far beyond the small town where he grew up, he never lost sight of where he came from.

Now, through his extraordinary generosity, he is helping shape what comes next for the community he still calls home. ❖

2027-28 Scholarship Information

Applications for Central Montana Foundation (CMF) and other area scholarships for the 2027-28 academic year will be available online in early December, with some exciting changes to the application process, according to CMF Executive Director Carrie Mantooth.

"The Foundation has invested in new software to help us manage our growing scholarship program," Carrie said. "Applicants will now complete their application electronically and upload it directly to us."

Central Montana graduating seniors and post-secondary students will use the same universal application, making the process simpler for students applying for multiple scholarships. The deadline to submit applications is April 1, 2027.

The application, along with any required attachments and descriptions of CMF and other scholarship opportunities, will be available on the CMF website at www.centralmontanafoundation.com. For more information, contact the CMF office at 406.538.6130. ❖

Colt Daniel Reisig Memorial Scholarship offered through CMF

A scholarship fund created in memory of Colt Daniel Reisig, a beloved 14-year-old whose life ended far too soon, will help carry his memory forward by supporting local students as they pursue their education.

Laredo Hagenbuch was a friend of Colt's and wanted to do something in his memory following his death, and raised funds that were used for 4-Hers, but has now expanded into a larger vision. To expand the reach of the memorial fund, Laredo recently asked Central Montana Foundation to establish a permanent scholarship endowment in Colt's name.

The Colt Daniel Reisig Memorial Scholarship will be awarded to a graduating senior from Fergus, Petroleum, or Judith Basin County, who plans to pursue an agriculture-related degree.

Colt, an eighth grader at the time of his death, excelled in the classroom and in sports. He played football and wrestled for Lewistown Junior High School and was an avid weightlifter. He was also a gifted photographer and sketch artist.

He was a 4-H member for several years, and loved showing livestock. He was a proud co-owner with his brother, Jacob, of Reisig Brothers Quality Custom Haying Company.

The Colt Daniel Reisig Memorial Scholarship was established by his good friend, Laredo Hagenbuch.

Colt's parents, Dustin and Rebecca Reisig, said his friends were especially important to him, and they are grateful to Laredo for finding a way to honor his memory and help other young people.

"Impressively, Laredo stepped up after losing a dear friend, our son, Colt Reisig, in a tragic loss on May 25, 2022, and decided to honor him by creating a scholarship in his name," Rebecca said.

Laredo spoke about Colt at the 4-H Livestock Sale, sharing what he meant to her and encouraging others to remember him. Several young people who had known Colt were inspired to contribute a portion of the proceeds from selling their 4-H animals to the scholarship fund.

Rebecca said Laredo's "courageous act was a gift to us and others. She inspired everyone to acknowledge their grief, remember their loved ones, and use it to become the best version of themselves they can become, helping others along the way."

The Reisig family hopes the scholarship will allow Colt's memory to continue making a difference for young people pursuing their education and their own futures.

CMF Community Service Scholarship awarded to Kaelen Krumwiede

Besides adminstering more than 90 scholarship funds, Central Montana Foundation (CMF) annually awards a $2,000 scholarship to a graduating senior who has documented at least 100 hours of community service.

Twelve Central Montana students applied this year, and CMF's Scholarship Selection Committee selected Fergus High School's Kaelen Krumwiede as the 2026 recipient.

Kaelen documented community service with National Honors Society, FHS Key Club, F Club, Fergus Football, Lewistown Hockey, Central Montana Youth Mentoring Program, Knights of Columbus, and Ducks Unlimited.

Kaelen is attending Montana State University–Northern and plans to become a financial advisor. In addition to the CMF Community Service Scholarship, he received other scholarships administered by CMF. (See related story on pages 4-5.)

"I truly appreciate all that the Central Montana Foundation does for our community," Kaelen said. "Besides the aid provided to the community, CMF also invests in the future of local students through scholarships. CMF's commitment to the youth not only helps students achieve academic and career goals but also fosters a strong sense of community and inspires both students and adults to give back."

CMF President Dean Comes said Kaelen is a great example of the outstanding youth coming from Central Montana. "The most important resource we have are our youth, and we hope many will choose to come back home following their education." ❖

Kaelen Krumwiede received this year's CMF's Community Service Scholarship. He was one of Fergus High School's 2026 valedictorians.

Moore Cemetery Association establishes endowment with CMF

Rural cemeteries are more than places where loved ones are laid to rest. They're part of the history of the communities around them, preserving the names, stories and memories of generations who came before.

Moore Cemetery Association members and the surrounding community take great pride in their cemetery located south of Moore, and a new permanent endowment with Central Montana Foundation (CMF) will help ensure it remains a well-cared-for place for generations to come.

The endowment was approved by the CMF Board of Directors last spring, and will be used for maintenance and improvements.

In 2019, Moore Cemetery Association members established a long-range goal for improvements at their community cemetery, and have systematically been completing the projects since then.

They built stone pillars around the bases of the entry arch into the cemetery and mounted a bronze memorial plaque, removed and replaced old fencing, added steel columns at the entry roads, and created gravel trenches under the fence and around the columns to make mowing easier.

Moore Cemetery Association recently set up a permanent endowment with Central Montana Foundation.

The projects were funded through private donations and grants from CMF and the Moore Endowment.

"We're grateful to the community and CMF for the support of our efforts," said Moore Cemetery Association President Joe Bauman. "We couldn't have accomplished these projects without that support!"

Donations to Moore Cemetery Association's permanent endowment are tax-deductible. Joe said the association's members are hopeful that the community continues to provide financial support to keep the cemetery looking beautiful and well-maintained for generations to come.

To give to his or other funds held with CMF, see the giving form on Page 14, or online at www.centralmontanafoundation.com under the "Give a Gift" tab. ❖

Helping improve life in our Central Montana Communities!

Local couple suport CMMC's Today and Tomorrow Initiative

Monte and Starla Solberg are no strangers to philanthropy. Throughout their years as owners of Lewistown Insurance and now in retirement, they have generously supported efforts that strengthen Central Montana.

They helped bring the Helmsley Cancer Center to life and later became groundbreaking donors—and valued thought partners—in shaping CMMC's Today & Tomorrow Initiative.

Monte and Starla Solberg are longtime supporters of projects and organizations that make a difference throughout Central Montana.

Central Montana Medical Center Foundation (MCF) Director Abby Franks said the Initiative reflects the Solbergs' complementary perspectives on giving.

"Monte is especially drawn to the Today Initiative and the opportunity to see a tangible result from their support. In Fiscal Year '26, the Today portion of their gift helped repair and replace essential components of CMMC's Physical Therapy Rehabilitation Pool—an investment patients can benefit from right now," Abby explained. "Starla is inspired by the long-term vision of the Tomorrow Initiative: building a permanent source of support that will grow and strengthen healthcare for future generations, including their grandchildren and those who come after them."

Abby said it's an honor to work with donors like the Solbergs, and "to learn what matters most to them, and help turn those interests into meaningful impact through the Today and Tomorrow Initiative."

She said, "Together, Monte and Starla demonstrate the full promise of the Today & Tomorrow Initiative—meeting important healthcare needs now while creating a strong foundation for the future."

Donors to the Today Fund provided the funds for the PT Pool rehab, a C-Arm for surgery, and a bladder scanner for CMMC's Clinic, over the last year, and more are stepping up for the next goals for radiology equipment, PhysioGait equipment to help with gait training, balance and motor coordination for physical therapy patients, and other current needs.

For more information about the Today & Tomorrow Initiative, call call Abby at the MCF office at 406.535.6309. ❖

Cancer Colors Celebration gift doubles its impact thanks to match

The annual Cancer Colors Celebration, held Aug. 12, once again raised funds to support local cancer care, and they presented a $17,450 check to Central Montana Medical Center (CMMC) to benefit cancer-care expansion and improved technology.

The gift will have double the impact thanks to a matching opportunity provided by Tim and Shana Rose. The couple has committed to match up to $150,000 in eligible gifts made by Dec. 31, 2026, and match pledges fulfilled by June 30, 2027.

For many years, Cancer Colors Celebration has generously supported CMMC, most recently helping make the Helmsley Cancer Center possible. The facility opened June 2, 2025, bringing comprehensive cancer care closer to home.

"It is a true honor to continue working with this special group to expand services and provide quality care at CMMC," said Abby Franks, CMMC Foundation Director. "Their continued generosity is making a meaningful difference for cancer patients and families throughout Central Montana." ❖

Cancer Colors Celebration volunteers and CMMC staff gathered Sept. 14 for a check presentation and celebratory toast honoring the committee's hard work and generous support of local cancer care.

Medical Center Foundation 57 grants total $517,086 in fiscal year 2026!

Central Montana Medical Center Foundation (MCF) ended the fiscal year on June 30, 2026, with a combined fund balance of $5,499,340 across 20 permanent and designated funds - an increase of about $1.4 million over the previous year.

"The growth represents more than financial progress," said MCF Director Abby Franks. "It reflects the generosity and vision of donors who believe in ensuring CMMC has the resources to meet today's healthcare needs while building a strong and sustainable future for generations to come."

Those funds also put donor support into action, providing $517,086 in grants during the fiscal year. The Today Fund led the way, providing more than $370,000 for major medical equipment and other needs, including a C-arm for real-time X-rays, an orthopedic surgery table, upgrades to the physical therapy rehabilitation pool, a clothes closet for patients in need, and equipment and upgrades for several CMMC departments.

Friends of First Responders, Nursing Excellence, and Education, and Darci's Gift-Save a Life Funds all supported education for medical personnel, EMT courses and CPR Certification for local high school students.

CMMC General, Cardiac Rehab, Behavioral Health, Lab, Hospice/Home Health, Acute Care, and HOPE funds supported projects benefiting patients and healthcare services throughout Central Montana.

Since the end of June, MCF funds have also provided for the following grants:

Today Fund

• An $11,000 grant from a designated gift is supporting physician recruitment and retention, an investment that helps strengthen access to quality healthcare for patients throughout Central Montana.

• Through the support of a Town Pump grant, an EMT received $2,500 to pursue paramedic education, helping expand the availability of highly trained emergency medical professionals in the region.

Emergency Room Fund

• A $7,068 grant helped purchase two new end-tidal CO_2 monitors. These monitors allow staff to closely track a patient's respiratory status, providing valuable real-time information to help guide care. With this purchase, CO_2 monitoring is now available in each Emergency Room as well as a triage room. "This is another investment helping our care team respond quickly and confidently when patients need us most," Abby said.

Nursing Excellence Fund

• $1,000 was granted to help a CMMC employee pursuing a Licensed Practical Nurse degree.

For more information about MCF and its mission to build support for health services, programs and professionals serving Central Montana, call the MCF office at 406.535.6309. ❖

Central Montana Foundation awards grants across the region

The Central Montana Foundation (CMF) Board of Directors continues its commitment to strengthening communities across the region through another round of grants made possible by income from its unrestricted permanent endowments.

Awards over the last quarter include:

• Small Wonder Child Care: A $4,999 grant will help purchase and install a comprehensive camera security system covering classrooms, hallways, outdoor play areas, and the parking lot. The system will help provide a safe and secure environment for children attending Small Wonder.

• Montana 4-H Foundation: CMF granted $3,000 to help with expenses of the Montana 4-H State Horse Shows held at the Fergus County Fairgrounds in Lewistown Sept. 10-13. The events included the Working Ranch Horse Finals and the State Performance Horse Show, with about 75 participants.

• Metis Celebration and Powwow: A $2,500 grant helped cover rental expenses for the three-day celebration held over Labor Day weekend in Winnett. The event, which has a long history in Lewistown, features hands-on workshops where Metis elders share traditional knowledge such as trapping, tanning, and foraging. A Native American powwow competition, live music, cultural demonstrations, and a community meal also help connect younger generations with Metis culture and traditions.

• Montana Meth Project: CMF awarded $4,999 to support targeted social media marketing of the Montana Meth Project's "Moments that Matter" message about the dangers of methamphetamine and fentanyl to teens in CMF's five-county region.

• Spirit Fusion Montana: An $800 grant will help four Lewistown cheerleaders with travel expenses to participate in the 85th Pearl Harbor Memorial Parade in Hawaii in December. The athletes were selected to represent Lewistown and Montana in the parade.

"These grants reflect CMF's ongoing commitment to investing in programs and projects that improve life across Central Montana,"' said CMF President Dean Comes. "This is achieved through the generosity of donors and the careful stewardship of endowment earnings."

Minor grants (requests under $5,000), are considered at CMF's monthly meetings held on the fourth Tuesday of the month. Contact CMF Executive Director Carrie Mantooth at 406.538.6130 to learn more about CMF's Grant Program. ❖

Leave a Wise Legacy.

A planned gift to Central Montana Foundation can allow you to earn a Montana Endowment Tax Credit and a federal charitable tax deduction, while making a lasting impact on the community you love.

(You can help your favorite non-profit;- see the list of permanent endowment funds held with CMF on Pages 14-15.)

☐ I'm interested in learning more about charitable gift annuities and would like CMF to prepare an illustration showing the potential Montana Income Tax Credit and federal charitable tax deduction. Preparation of the illustration does not obligate you to make the gift!

☐ I would like to speak to someone about estate planning. Please contact me.
